Learning Outcomes

1. Upon completion of the major students will be able to: write compelling arguments that are supported by evidence; identify key precedents for their own arguments about media; apply moving image analysis to explain how specific media examples communicate to audiences, and with what implications and effects; and evaluate specific media works and events in a global, historical context. The foundational courses indicated below focus on the development of these skills.

2. Upon completion of FAMS 301 students will be able to identify key precedents for their own arguments about media.

3. Upon completion of FAMS 240 students will be able to apply moving image analysis to explain how specific media examples communicate to audiences and with what implications and effects.

4. Upon completion of FAMS 300 students will be able to evaluate specific media works and events in an historical context.

5. Upon completion of FAMS 308 students will be able to evaluate specific media works and events in a global context.