LAW AND SOCIETY INTERDISCIPLINARY MINOR

The Law and Society minor offers students a broad way to think about contemporary issues and to examine important lessons from history. Students can take courses from a wide range of fields, guided by their individual goals, including political science, comparative literature, religious studies, Jewish studies, anthropology, history, speech/rhetoric and more. Students develop strong critical thinking skills, with extensive reading, research and writing experience.

The Law and Society minor is ideal for students who wish to advance to law school as well as those interested in engaging deeply with these topics. This interdisciplinary minor complements many primary fields of study and gives students an edge for competitive graduate and post-baccalaureate programs. Students who complete the minor will also be equipped for jobs in public service, such as nonprofit management or advocacy work, among others.

Minor Requirements (18 hours)

The Law and Society minor consists of 18 credit hours or 6 courses.

- Two courses (6 hours) must be chosen from offerings listed under "Foundational Courses" (Group A).
- Four Courses (12 hours) must be chosen from offerings listed under "Specialized Courses" (Group B)
