

WOMEN'S AND GENDER STUDIES, B.A.

A degree in Women's and Gender Studies contributes meaningful skills to careers in healthcare, law, journalism, business, education, social work, politics and more. Employees with a Women's and Gender Studies degree are particularly attractive to employers because they know how to succeed in an increasingly globalizing and diversifying world.

Students in the Bachelor of Arts program gain deeper understanding of women and other underrepresented groups through research and community involvement. In addition to gaining skills that translate well into future employment or graduate studies, Women's and Gender Studies students learn to think critically, communicate effectively, solve problems and interpret human experiences with empathy and insight.

Learning Outcomes

1. Students will demonstrate a basic understanding of feminist concepts and analysis.
2. Students will demonstrate understanding of diversity by gender, race, ethnicity, social class, sexuality, and nationality.
3. Students will demonstrate civic engagement through their community placements and other curricular activities.
